FLIERS TELL OF FIRES AT NAGOYA PLANT

At Least 24 Direct Hits
Scored On Jap Factory;
Raid Rangoon Today

(By Associated Press)
21ST BOMBER COMMAND, Saipan, Dec. 14.—Many direct hits ripped the Mitsubishi's big Hatsu-doki aircraft factory at Nagoya and probably caused terrific damage, photographs taken by the B-29 raiders disclosed today.

At the same time Washington announced a new raid by B-29s on Thailand and the Japanese radio reported a B-29 strike against Rangoon in Burma, adjoining Japanese controlled Thailand.

(Tokyo also broadcast an unconfirmed claim that a lone Superfortress flew over the Japanese capital today (Japanese time).

(In one broadcast the Japanese claimed destruction of two B-29s during the big raid against the Japanese homeland yesterday and five more in the Rangoon strike. American quarters said preliminary reports showed no American planes were lost over the target in Japan.)

Factory Hit 24 Times
Pictures showing 24 hits upon the rambling aircraft factory at Nagoya were brought back by the big plane of Capt. Thomas Kuenning of New Bremen, Ohio. His plane was one of the first over the target.

Other pictures disclosed at least 14 direct hits, particularly in the plant's machine shops and assembly departments.

The fliers brought back 'jubilant' reports of the devastation wrought and Tokyo radio conceded the B-29 raids are "becoming serious."

(Before the first wave of the huge force of B-29s—Washington advised indicated 100 took part—left the target scene, pillars of smoke rose from the plant, largest of the vast Mitsubishi interests. It produced a new agreement, effective tomorrow.

The new agreement, unchanged from the present one except for a few minor modifications, will extend to Oct. 1, 1946. It was announced simultaneously by Joseph M. Wells, chairman of the labor committee of the U. S. P. A., and James M. Duffy, president of the Potters' brotherhood.

The contract is subject to the usual optional re-opening by either side.

Controversial issues which could not be decided at this time were reported to have been referred to the War Labor board. This includes the union's request for a substantial wage increase, which, the industry claims, can not be met unless the "Little Steel" wage formula is changed.

Vacation pay checks, approved by the WLB a month ago and a controversial issue among Potters, will be issued before Jan. 1, to some 20,000 pottery workers in the country, it was decided before the three-day caucus came to a close today.

Four persons escaped possible injury at 10:30 p. m. yesterday when the car in which they were riding, driven by Richard McHenry, 29, of Midland, Pa., crashed into the side of a freight train at a crossing on Route 7, about one mile east of Route 45.

Although the car was damaged considerably and had to be towed away, McHenry and three passengers in his car were uninjured. Salem state patrolmen said.

McHenry told police he was unable to see the train because of a frosted windshield and crashed into the side of the moving train.

Stalled In Deep Snow

GRAFTON, W. Va., Dec. 14.—Two dozen persons, marooned on a stalled railroad train for 24 hours during West Virginia's worst blizzard, were safe at their fireplaces today, none the worse for their experience.

The Baltimore and Ohio passenger train, forced to stop by snow and trees on the tracks Tuesday morning, 45 miles out of Charleston, crawled into Grafton early last evening.

Conductor Charles W. Cogar reported that none of the passengers suffered during the delay. A shipper of wieners and bread was commandeered and 4-H girls from the village of Elkhurst pushed through drifts with hot coffee.

Supreme Court Ruling

Cities' Closing Ordinances
Invalidated By State Law

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Municipalities may prescribe closing hours for sale of beer and liquor so long as they do not conflict with state law, the Ohio Supreme court holds.

The court's decision yesterday invalidated a Columbus city ordinance which sought to impose midnight closing on D-1, D-2 and D-3A permit holders, for which the State Liquor department prescribes 2:30 a. m. closing.

The state tribunal's ruling affirmed a Franklin county appellate court decision in a suit by the Neil House hotel to test validity of the midnight closing ordinance. The appellate court had reversed a decision of the common pleas court.

The Supreme court decision said: "Where a rule has been promulgated by the Department of Liquor Control which fixes a closing hour after midnight, a municipal ordinance fixing an earlier closing hour—at midnight—is in conflict therewith and is invalid."

The Supreme court affirmed decisions of Cuyahoga county courts holding that five former trustees of the Guardian Trust Co. employees' fund could not be held liable for losses suffered by the fund through the trustees' investments in capital stock of the trustee company.

The court, by refusing a review, upheld the Mahoning county appellate court in sustaining the state board of real estate examiners which revoked the license of Raymond G. Schaeffer, a realty broker.

The state tribunal also refused to disturb a decision of the Butler county appellate court, which upheld dismissal of Charles Armbruster, a Middletown policeman, accused of gross neglect of duty, incompetence and inefficiency.

Bond sales soared to near the $300,000 mark yesterday as workers made a final concerted drive to reach Salem's goal by the end of the campaign on Saturday.

To date the city has reached 69 per cent of its over-all quota, although the E bond sales are still lagging behind with only 50 per cent of the $451,500 mark achieved.

Over-all sales now total $1,373,022.40 and of that figure $229,428.50 is in E series bonds. Salem's over-all goal is $2,002,200.

Chairman E. M. Stephenson appealed to citizens who have not been contacted by a house-to-house solicitor to make their purchases at once at one of the banks, the post-office or other issuing agencies.

Tickets to the War Bond premiere of "The Princess and the Pirate" starring Bob Hope, are available at bond selling agencies until the show opens here Dec. 21. Only purchasers of War bonds will be admitted to the show. To receive a ticket, a person must buy a bond between Dec. 12 and 21.

Turmoil In Athens Seen
As Subsiding

ELAS, Their Drive Halted
By British, Ready for Compromise

By STEPHEN BARRER
ATHENS, Dec. 14.—The drive of ELAS forces of the national liberation front on the center of Athens appeared today to have been halted and British leaders said the most dangerous phase in the 12-day turmoil apparently had passed.

Heavy firing which shook the city earlier this week gave way to sporadic machine-gun bursts and the last 24 hours were the quietest of any like period since the fighting broke out between the Leftists on the one hand and Greek forces and British troops on the other.

Military authorities, however, banned civilians from the streets except between noon and 2 p. m.

British and Greek mountain brigade forces held an area approximately three miles square in the center of Athens, and extended their holdings in Piraeus, and about five square miles despite local ELAS attacks. Reinforcements made the British position more secure.

Rumors persisted that ELAS leaders would attempt to reach an agreement with Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander, and would send a representative with counter-proposals, but it was understood the British terms remained unchanged. The British demands included evacuation of Attica by the ELAS, surrender of their arms and the disarmament of private armies.

Gen. Nicolas Plastiras, who returned from abroad at the invitation of Premier George Papandreou, conferred for two hours with Papandreou.

Indications that the ELAS still were militant came from the ELAS-held Athens radio, which broadcast: "Greeks, defend your fatherland in the towns and ports. To the barricades! Everyone is to take up arms!"

Reports said the ELAS were ready to accept British terms on condition they would not be prosecuted as a party and that Scobie would agree to formation of a new national government headed by some one other than Premier George Papandreou.

The state tribunal's ruling affirmed a Franklin county appellate court decision in a suit by the Neil House hotel to test validity of the midnight closing ordinance. The appellate court had reversed a decision of the common pleas court.

Two Sons Killed, Mother Seeks Return of Third

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 14.—Army officials are being asked to call John Lesko, a 28-year-old paratrooper, back from England to take the place of his two brothers killed in action.

Last July his mother, Mrs. Mary Lesko, received one of those fateful War department telegrams. Her son, Joseph, had been killed on Saipan. Two weeks ago she received a Purple Heart medal for him.

Last week another telegram arrived. It was Michael, a 25-year-old private first class. He was missing—but a few days later came word that he had been killed in action.

Bearing her latest messages from the government, Mrs. Lesko went to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief office here and asked if they could get Johnny back from England.

The War
Today...

ERNEST BEVIN, England's square-jawed labor leader, likely has served an anxious world well by his argumentative outburst which is widely interpreted as confirming in effect that Britain and Russia are indeed in process of establishing separate spheres of influence in liberated Europe.

It's a good thing to have all the cards on the table in parous times like these. The citizen-in-ordinary wants to know what goes forward.

To get the full significance of this explosion, you must know that Bevin not only heads Britain's powerful labor party but also is minister of labor in Churchill's coalition cabinet. Yesterday at a stormy session of the annual labor conference, which challenged the government's military intervention in the Greek impasse, Bevin was forced into his role of cabinet minister to defend his political chief against the contention that Britain's action has been at cross purposes with her Allies.

As Cabinet Minister Bevin accepted his share of responsibility for the government policy and declared "long before this we had an agreement with Russia whereby Russia undertook the main problem of Romania and we undertook the main problem of Greece." Then he added: "This agreement was taken to Quebec, submitted to President Roosevelt and agreed to and initiated by him."

Authoritative quarters in Washington immediately declared flatly that the United States maintains a firm stand opposed to the development of spheres of influence in Europe. They denied that the President had okayed any Anglo-Russian agreement dividing up political interests in the Balkans.

It long has been obvious to observers that Britain and Russia are maneuvering deliberately to establish spheres of influence, and this column has called attention to it more than once. This was, it seems to me, to be expected unless human nature changed overnight. The trend was watched without undue emotion.

Mr. Fish Will Go Fishing

There are many political personages who do not like Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York, finally defeated last Nov. 7 by a weird combination of alliances and maneuvering as the voters of Dutchess, Orange and Putnam counties ever witnessed. But their dislike and the use they have made of it will not dispose of Mr. Fish. Not even the smear tags which have been pinned on him will do that job—and this is not a statement of admiration but merely a statement of fact.

Rep. Fish has delivered in the house, as his swan song, a long and burning address in which he sums up the causes for his defeat in the election. There are many points of interest in it, but for present purposes, only one point is going to be considered—the speaker's strong determination to get even with Gov. Dewey of New York for his part in what happened to Mr. Fish. Thus, if the governor runs for reelection, Mr. Fish will go fishing.

Gov. Dewey, it will be remembered, went out of his way to demonstrate that he held Mr. Fish in political contempt, a campaign strategy which Mr. Fish claims backfired at Mr. Dewey's expense, though he conceded it was the major factor in his own defeat. In other words, Rep. Fish raises the question of Gov. Dewey's wisdom in his campaign for the presidency, suggests that he has disqualified himself as party leader and recommends that the party should think about a coalition with dissident Democrats and a bid for the confidence of conservatives in 1948, under a new name.

Rep. Fish speaks with no special authority on this subject, but he speaks. There has been, so far, no word from anybody. Yet, it is plain that not only the party's future but the future of the two-party system of government is hanging in the balance. Now that Rep. Fish has opened the subject with a proposal for the formal beginning of internecine warfare—the last thing that Republicans want—it would seem to be past the psychologically opportune time for Gov. Dewey to declare what he plans to do as the only party spokesman who can make an authoritative statement.

Short Memories

When Edward Stettinius, Jr., was appointed secretary of state to succeed Cordell Hull, the great majority of comments on Mr. Roosevelt's decision to give the ranking cabinet position to the young businessman concluded like this: "This appointment leaves no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt intends to be his own secretary of state."

Such a conclusion was obvious. It recognized the plain fact that every chief executive has ultimate responsibility for the decisions of his secretary of state and that Mr. Roosevelt would not expect to give Mr. Stettinius—or anyone else—a free rein. He would make the major decisions on policy while Mr. Stettinius administered the department and held the portfolio. That is the same arrangement that exists in Great Britain between Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Minister Eden, even though the latter is in a much stronger political position than Mr. Stettinius.

Yet, a few days after Mr. Stettinius took his place in the state department and issued an important decision on policy affecting the question of self-determination for liberated countries and indirectly rebuking Great Britain, it apparently never occurred to anybody that this amounted to a falling-out between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill on one of the most ticklish issues of the day. It is, in fact, an issue so ticklish that it was included in the Atlantic Charter.

Tip To OPA

The OPA has issued a new regulation covering "occasional institutional users of ration food". Translated—as most OPA terms must be—this means people who now and then serve a church supper or similar eating function and charge money for it.

The "occasional institutional users" must now make application 30 days before the date of the meal, and specify how many persons are going to attend. They must also account for any unused rationed food within 10 days "after the last service of food during the period covered by the application".

Now this may be very well, but it is clear to us that the regulation was drafted by some city slicker in Washington who never attended a church supper.

If he had he would know that he was dealing with an old and inflexible American tradition in which two things inevitably happen:

(1) The "occasional institutional users" never know how many are going to attend their occasional function, and (2) no amount of planning is going to prevent the late-comer at said function from getting a superfluity of hot biscuits and cold stew, and something less than a minimum of creamed chicken.

Our advice to the OPA is to forget the whole thing and go back to its tussle with the black market. Those late-comers always feel bad enough anyway, and there's no point in OPA sticking its neck out as a target for their disappointment.

To Promote Understanding

Nothing—not even war—can spoil humanity's simple pleasure in deep snow. The children rolling in drifts are the envy of their elders. The latter complain about the hardships imposed by the storm, but they do not really mean it. Secretly, they are pleased to know that the weather is still capable of playing a good joke on them. Unlike flood and wind, which also play jokes, snow jokes are rarely cruel—just funny, if one can understand the humor in an automobile stuck in a gutter.

But in wartime, to promote understanding, snow has a further use. It is the same snow that American soldiers are fighting in and living in abroad, in France, Germany and Italy. They do not step outside for a brief interval, then come into a warm room to dry their clothing and warm their feet and hands. They live in snow and mud 24 hours a day, seven days a week—and the weeks are stretching into months. If anyone is having trouble understanding the war, a night spent in the back yard should make everything much clearer.

For Friday, December 15.

A PARTICULARLY lively and strenuous day is forecast from the current astral configurations. While things will move at a heightened tempo, with travel, change, new arrangements, or understandings of legal or tacit implications, yet there is little definite promise of profitable or enhanced financial status. The tendency is toward extravagant, rash or unwise outlay, even on brilliant plans or contacts, which are subject to peril. Such temptations might possibly be in conjunction with festivities, romance, social or domestic celebrations.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of lively and exciting moving about, or change, in travel, communications, writings or new affiliations in business, domestic, affectional or professional contacts. The proclivity is to speculate or splurge in such direction, with unwarranted show, generosity. With prudence and care there might be much enjoyment and happiness, with preferments or promotion for clever work. With wisdom in legal matters or writings loss may be averted.

A child born on this day may have bright ideas, much talent and ambition in professional lines, but its generous and friendly nature may lean to the financially unprofitable side.

Mr. MacLeish's Prescription

By James Thrasher

Archibald MacLeish, generally conceded to be a good poet and a good Librarian of Congress, has not had a very distinguished career in government. As head of the pre-OWI Office of Facts and Figures he was more inclined to persuade than to inform—a natural enough mistake for a poet to make, but scarcely a recommendation for a purely factual job.

Now Mr. MacLeish has been nominated for Assistant Secretary of State in charge of cultural relations. It sounds like a good job for him. But the Senate has held up confirmation of his nomination, with those of other assistant secretary candidates, pending some deep and earnest discussion.

It may be that Mr. MacLeish's poetic profession, together with his OFF record, will not prejudice the Senate in his favor. But before they judge him too harshly we would commend to the practical statesmen a recent prose article by the poet-librarian. And though it's probably no inducement, we will agree to read the whole article if the senators will do the same.

The piece is titled "Humanism and the Belief in Man". And quoted samples of it in the newspapers would indicate that Mr. MacLeish has said something quite appropriate to the times and his prospective new job.

Humanism is a loose and inclusive term, but Mr. MacLeish's definition of his own particular brand seems to be summed up thus: "It is necessary to believe in man, not only as the Christians believe in man, out of pity, or as the democrats believe in man, out of loyalty, but also as the Greeks believe in man, out of pride."

Certainly that prescription should suit the world's needs in the immediate postwar years. War makes it hard to believe in man out of pride in spite of the multitude of heroic acts that it calls forth. It brutalizes him, strips away his civilization, and squanders his life with cruel prodigality. It is necessary after every war to ennoble man anew, to restore his faith in his leadership, to believe that from a lesson of degradation has come a new concept of decency and dignity.

That did not happen after the last war, and there are symptoms that it might not happen after this one. We should like to see Mr. MacLeish take his idea of "democratic humanism" into the State Department and see if perhaps it might catch on internationally.

For our future depends upon diplomacy, a remote region in which the common people have difficulty in making themselves heard—even in a democracy. It is in that region that the change must occur. It is no good our deluding ourselves into thinking that the world is going to be made better by a lot of new inventions.

Our salvation lies not in plastics but in ethics, and ethics in the highest reaches of government.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

The Effects of Weather On Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
CLIMATE AND weather and their effects on man's happiness and health are subjects which have been studied since the days of Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, who devoted one part of his writings to "Of Seasons and Places". But only of late is it beginning to be studied with careful scientific methods.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Climate and weather have some- what different connotations. A tropical climate brings continuous health hazards. But weather, which means, of course, variations in barometric pressure, humidity, heat and cold affects the body by mere physical changes.

Everyone knows, or has heard, of the fellow with rheumatism or a bullet in his leg who can predict the approaching storm. There have been scoffers at such abilities, but there is no reason to doubt them, and many theoretical reasons to explain why they should be true. Barometric pressure and temperature changes in the atmosphere, both affect blood pressure and circulatory adjustments of the distribution of blood. Why should not the more rapid circulation of the blood which is required by the onset of cold weather cause a particular spot of scar tissue to become congested and throb?

Famous Cases

Dr. William F. Peterson of Chicago, has taken the trouble to look up the weather records and make some valuable correlations in some famous cases. The effect of extra exertion on attacks of angina pectoris is well known, but many instances are on record where extra exertion, or indeed exertion of any kind did not precede an attack.

The first patient in whom it was definitely proved that a clot in the blood vessels of the heart caused pain in the heart region was that recorded by Dr. James B. Herrick, of Chicago. The patient was a man 55 years old who had his attack at midnight on January 10, 1910, after no more effort than is involved in eating a late supper. Now Dr. Peterson has looked up the weather reports for that period and finds that there was a sharp change in the weather on the very day of the attack.

Another definite and famous case on record is that of President Calvin Coolidge. He died suddenly on Jan. 5, 1933. He had been in good health complaining of only a little acid indigestion for a few days. The temperature record of the region shows the same curve as that which obtained in Dr. Herrick's classic case—first a severe cold wave that sent temperatures down 60 degrees in one day and then an equally sudden rise, at the crest of the high temperature President Coolidge's fatal heart attack occurred.

Heat Balance

"Of all the powers," wrote Hippocrates, "none holds less sway in the body than heat and cold." The human organism holds most tenaciously to its heat balance. But in so doing it must rely mainly on the circulatory system to drive the temperature-regulating blood evenly over the body surface and internal organs. This certainly puts as much of a strain on the heart muscle as exertion, against which we are so regularly warned by the students of heart conditions.

The variations in feeling of well-being that people with chronic high or low blood pressure feel may well be related to weather changes. It will take a long range period of study by those who are willing to become experimental animals and record their symptoms daily as well as the temperature and barometric pressure before we can even begin to plan research which may lead us to the reasons—physiological and chemical—for these changes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
R. S.: Is it harmful to take milk of magnesia every night?
Answer: Milk of magnesia, or oxide of magnesia, is a very mild laxative and a very good alkaline neutralizer. It corrects sour stomach. Large doses taken regularly are well tolerated although it may finally irritate the bowel and stomach.

No Unemployment In Five Ohio Cities In November

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14 — Benefit payments to Ohio jobless reversed a steady 1944 downward trend for the first time last month, Administrator Charles H. Jones of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported today.

November payments totaled $57,592, a 35 per cent gain over October's all-time low of $42,386.

Jones attributed the increase to scattered production cutbacks in war plants, coupled with seasonal layoffs.

He said approximately 40 per cent of the compensable unemployment last month was concentrated in Cleveland, Toledo, Youngstown, Ironton and Marion, although 27 of the BUC's 51 local offices reported November increases in payments.

Five cities—East Liverpool, Piqua, Ravenna, Troy and Wooster—had no compensable unemployment during the month, while Ashland, Findlay, Washington Court House and Wooster received no new claims for benefits.

The Buc administrator also reported that state compensation to returned war veterans under the servicemen's readjustment act amounted to $22,522 in November. Payments were made to 334 veterans as compared with 214 the previous month.

Amateurs Have Their Day

PEORIA, Ill. — Sponsors of the Peoria symphony orchestra filled gaps in the 40-piece ensemble with talented amateurs—among them a doctor, a lawyer, two salesmen, a housewife and a research scientist. War had thinned the ranks of veterans.

PUT SQUEEZE ON JAPANESE

Yanks tighten Ormoc Trap; Three Enemy Transports Are Sunk

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Dec. 14.—Great numbers of Japanese were being killed in the mountains east of captured Ormoc as the Americans on Leyte put the pressure on the south end of a trap in the bloody Ormoc corridor, headquarters reported today.

Other enemy troops drowned Tuesday night in an attempt to send three small freighters, loaded with soldiers, into Ormoc. The Japanese evidently were unaware the west Leyte port was in American hands, shore fire sent all three to the bottom.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said enemy losses on the ground were "extraordinarily heavy" as Seventh division Yanks, who helped take the important port on Sunday, pursued scattered Japanese "fighting desperately to free themselves over the mountain trails."

Americans of the 77th division regrouped at Ormoc and sent patrols north to probe enemy strength to the rear of the Yamashita line, while 32nd division forces, which have been battling the weather as well as stubborn Japanese for weeks, maintained frontal pressure from the north.

Thousands of crack Imperial troops are in the corridor, deprived of their principal reinforcement port of Ormoc. Their supplies now must come via a treacherous road from Pelompon, a secondary seaport at best.

For the third successive day American planes struck at oil installations at Borneo. Refinery buildings, six large oil tanks and two reservoirs were set ablaze by fighters at Tarakan. Five coastal vessels were sunk or damaged.

A 3,000-ton freighter-transport was sunk east of Mindoro in the Central Philippines by night air patrols.

Pvt. J. A. Zeir, enroute from Camp Reynolds to Indian Gap, visited with his uncle, Dr. P. N. Leimbach, and family one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Royer and Mrs. Emma Royer of Columbiana visited last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Williamson.

The Willing Workers class of the Lutheran church will hold its annual Christmas party next Thursday at the home of Mrs. F. A. MacGillis. Each is asked to bring a gift.

United States Airplane Surplus Totals 23,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—More than 23,000 planes have been declared surplus by the Army, Navy and other government agencies. Announcing this today, W. L. Clayton, Surplus Property administrator, said 6,239 had been sold as of Dec. 1.

Of these the largest proportion was light civilian type aircraft requisitioned after Pearl Harbor for use as trainers.

Some "war-weary" aircraft also have been de-labeled surplus. These are mostly obsolete fighters and bombers which have outlived their military usefulness and are beyond economic repair.

DREARY CHRISTMAS LOOMS FOR NAZIS

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 14.—Germany's sixth successive wartime Christmas promises to be the drearest of them all.

"The Christmas spirit can't be found in Germany," says the German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau in a dispatch from Berlin. "One doesn't see any Christmas trees as in former years, nor Christmas decorations in the stores. All Germans know that 1944 will be the gloomiest Christmas."

Dispatches from Swedish correspondents indicate that military reverses, wartime shortages and distresses caused by Allied air raids have combined to present a depressing picture.

For the first time since the start of the war, children evacuated from bombed areas must spend Christmas away from their parents by a government order which has destroyed the whole meaning of the day as a family festival in Germany. Instead the children will be comforted by an autographed gift picture of Adolf Hitler and a bankbook with a few reichsmarks.

Win Agriculture Awards

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—A newspaperman and a college official last night won the American Farm Bureau federation awards for distinguished service to agriculture.

The awards, presented at the federation's annual convention, were to William W. Waymack, director of the editorial section of the Des Moines (Ia.) Register and Tribune, and Lloyd R. Simons, director of extension of the New York state colleges of agriculture and home economics.

Brave Arctic Ice, Sink Nazi Vessels

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Four Coast Guard cutters, operating in ice-packed Arctic waters, smashed a "determined Nazi effort" to establish fortified bases in Greenland.

The Navy, reporting this today, said one German armed trawler was sunk, another captured, a third was found abandoned; 60 prisoners were taken and a radio station was captured and destroyed.

In addition a German bomber attack was beaten off in the series of actions which lasted from July to late October.

Three of the Coast Guard cutters were damaged by crushing icepacks; one, the Northwind, had to be towed 3,000 miles for repairs.

The climax of the battle through ice floes and along frozen shores came Oct. 16 when the cutters Eastwind and Southwind captured the German armed trawler Externsteine and its crew of four officers and 30 men.

Salvo after salvo of shells flashed across the icepacks before the Nazi craft was cornered in a pocket formed by ice floes and forced to surrender.

BOSTON—Water leakage surveys are credited with saving 4,000,000 gallons of Boston's water a day. Total water consumption for the city is 105,000,000 gallons daily. Geophones and photoflow instruments are being used in checking leakage flow.

PREACHER TRAVELS BY PLANE TO GIVE GOSPEL MESSAGES

Company Tests 'Chutes For Freight Deliveries

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa.—A flying pastor of the Cumberland valley literally drops out of the sky to address congregations in Pennsylvania and neighboring states.

He is Rev. Clyde W. Meadows, pastor of the King Street United Brethren church of Chambersburg, who has been a licensed pilot since 1940.

"Flying gets in your bones, so I decided to make practical use of it in my work," says Dr. Meadows, who has over 350 solo hours of flying to his credit without a mishap.

"Dead-Stick" Landings

Once at nearby Hershey, Pa., he brought his ship down on a 20-foot strip of highway while the landing gear was being repaired. He has made several "dead-stick" landings.

Dr. Meadows likes the time-saving features of air travel and flew to 300 speaking engagements outside Chambersburg in 1943, in addition to his pastoral duties to a 1,600-member congregation.

The 43-year-old flying preacher believes he makes better progress with teen age groups because of his use of the airplane.

Youth Is Air-Minded

"Young people today are air-minded, and illustrations from flying hold their attention as nothing else will," he says.

Dr. Meadows' wife is now convinced that flying is safe in good weather, but is not "wholeheartedly enthusiastic" about it. Mrs. Meadows has accompanied her husband on several of his air excursions.

The Chambersburg minister's interest in aviation dates back to his boyhood, when he turned from flying kites to model airplanes. He had his first airplane ride 20 years ago, and earned to fly in 1938.

The old plane he uses is owned by him with four other Chambersburg men who form the Luscombe Flying Club. They purchased it July 1, 1944, as a replacement for a trainer which the government took over after Pearl Harbor.

Grounded for part of 1943 by restrictions on civilian flying, the pastor said he is now permitted to fly as will any civilian pilot within 50 miles of the coast or over military installations. He said he was able to get whatever gasoline was required for his trips and expected no change since the Civil Air Patrol took over distribution of aviation fuel to civilians.

Grangers Conclude Convention After Speech By Lausche

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Ohio State grange delegates closed their 72nd annual convention today in the wake of a plea by Gov.-Elect Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland for greater respect by Americans for law and order.

Lausche said increased regard for law and order was necessary to eliminate racketeers which he said constitute "a government within a government more powerful than duly elected officials".

The Cleveland mayor listed gamblers, racketeering unionists and strikers who defy back-to-work orders as examples of group defiance, and asserted it was because of them that "we fear the specter of a post-war period when lawlessness will dominate the nation". Lausche spoke at last night's grange banquet.

Joseph W. Fichter of Oxford was re-elected for a second two-year term as master of the state grange.

The convention awarded gold medals to deputies of grange organizations in six counties which showed a net gain of more than 200 in membership last year. The counties and their deputies were: Greene, Erle Hutchison; Lorain, Frank Mason; Licking, Claude J. Bone; Miami, T. G. Widener; Muskingum, Orville Baughman, and Stark, Willard Heinbuch.

The gold medal juvenile award went to four counties for a net gain of 65 or more members. Counties and their deputies were: Lake, Mrs. A. L. Logan; Miami, Mrs. T. G. Widener; Muskingum, Mrs. Pauline Hughes, and Shelby, Mrs. Harry A. Heintz.

Butaprene S, a type of synthetic rubber, is made by combining three parts of butadiene with one part of styrene.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

tion until Britain intervened militarily in the Greek political strife, with the avowed purpose of seeing that no government was established by force and that the people had a chance to make a choice by peaceful methods.

Naturally the world at large then began to fidget and got out the Atlantic Charter to see if the promises of self-determination for little nations was involved. Washington reiterated its stand for self-determination, and Britain agreed. But the Greek affair has grown and the world's fidgetiness has increased.

We are going to do a lot more fidgeting, for, as I see it, there's nothing which can prevent the formation of spheres of influence in Europe. It may be argued that the aren't necessarily bad—that they may be beneficial and satisfactory to the small nations in them. None can gainsay that if and when one sphere of influence encroaches on another, then the sparks are bound to fly between the dominant powers.

I believe Britain and Russia will continue maneuvering for position and it's apparent the energetic Gen. De Gaulle also is determined to find a place in the sun for France. The situation in Europe today is far more delicate than before the war, because Russia is emerging as the dominant power, thereby creating an entirely new alignment.

However, the fact that the major powers recognize the delicacy of the position, and are bent on avoiding clashes, perhaps affords the best security available.

ARMY CASUALTIES NOW TOTAL 483,957

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Army casualties for all theaters now total 483,957.

Secretary of War Stimson announced this figure today, and said it represents casualties reported through Nov. 28. This was an increase of 9,059 for a one-week period between Nov. 22 and 28.

Casualties for all branches of the armed forces—Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marines—now stand at 562,368. The latest Navy report announces 78,411 casualties, an increase of 1,291 from the previous week.

The Army totals, together with those of a week ago, follow: Killed 92,135 and 81,625; wounded, 272,351 and 268,099; missing, 62,789 and 58,228; prisoners, 56,685 and 56,248.

The Navy casualties: Killed, 30,029 and 29,738; wounded, 34,503 and 33,469; missing, 9,493 and 9,427; prisoners, 4,486, unchanged.

Casualties among American Army Ground Forces in Italy increased 16,255 between Sept. 25 and Dec. 9. Stimson said that from the time of the landing at Salerno in September, 1943, through last Dec. 8 a total of 98,366 casualties had been reported. Of the total, 18,898 were killed, 67,194 wounded and 12,274 are missing. As of Sept. 25, the list had reported 15,889 killed, 56,178 wounded and 10,044 missing.

The Navy's newest blimp, the M-1, has a three-bladed electric propeller which can be used as an airbrake on either side or both at once.

STATE DEPARTMENT APPOINTEES O.K.'D

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Senate foreign relations committee approval of the nominations of Archibald MacLeish and five other State department appointees was indicated today when Sen. Guffey (D-Pa.) suddenly switched his vote.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) announced Guffey's changed position to a news conference in the committee room after receiving a hurried telephone call from the Pennsylvania senator.

The Guffey shift made the committee vote 11 to 9 for MacLeish, after the 10 to 10 tie which had existed previously.

Connally said that Senators Warner (D-N.Y.) and Nye (R-ND) were absent, would be allowed to vote later in the day.

Indications were that they would split their votes on MacLeish. Connally said that Sen. Glass (D-Vt.) who was absent, was ill and Connally did not expect him to participate.

TRAINED BRITISH DOGS HELP CLEAR PATH TO BERLIN

AP Newsfeatures
LONDON — One of Britain's most closely guarded secrets is the method used in training dogs to detect German mines since these diabolical contraptions were first sprung by the Nazis along their trail of retreat. The Army has been finding means of counteracting them.

Months ago, specially trained dogs—their scent sharpened by months of schooling—were sent to the front. They have proven highly successful sniffing out mines. Thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of material have been saved by this comparatively simple way of detection.

Mine scenting is just one of the new important jobs of protecting and saving lives that is being tackled by the dog army. Recently when a hotel was hit in southern England, "Darkie" a German police dog was credited with finding the spot where several children were buried. Rescuers dug them out in time.

Hundreds In Action

Several hundred mine scenters are now in action on the fronts in France, Belgium and Holland—going clear the road to Berlin. Many dogs flunked out of school during their secret training period, for they could smell nothing but the meat for their dinner.

Trainers, who teach the dogs, explain that keen sense is the individual characteristic of the dog and not the breed. Therefore, German police, collies, bull terriers, bulldogs and other fine animals get their mine smelling degree as well as mongrels.

Some of the best dogs are ordinary street hounds which have sharpened their olfactory organs on garbage cans and lamp posts.

Out at the front they know better than to scamper off across the fields sniffing indiscriminately. It is not until their master buckles a collar and leash around their necks that they realize they are ready for work—just like a horse knows it's work time when he is harnessed.

The dog usually lies down or sits down when he comes within a few feet of a mine. The sapper does the rest. Some breeds of hunting dogs are so highly specialized that they stop dead in their tracks and point to the buried mine just as if they had spotted a covey of grouse.

Four-Legged Commandos

There has been no report of a dog being killed while on a mine hunt. They may stop only a few inches from the explosive, but they always stop in time.

Some 200 dogs have been used for patrol duty at ammunition dumps and air fields to help guard against attempts at sabotage. These animals were selected for their "commando" course to intensify their dislike for strangers.

After the war many of the dogs will be kept by their Army masters, whose sole duty is to keep their charges groomed, fed and cared for. The soldier is required to write a letter once a month to the dog's owner telling of the animal's welfare.

The British government already is making plans for demobilizing its dog army after the war. According to health regulations, the dogs which have left the country must go into quarantine for six months before returning to prevent rabies being brought into England.

The government realizes it will have a terrific problem which keeps up thousands of homes which have seen service and are itching to get back home to hunt for their buried bones instead of mines.

Oak trees grow to their greatest size in the Ohio valley, according to experts.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

by Hal Boyle

WITH THE 2ND INFANTRY DIVISION IN GERMANY, Dec. 7. (Delayed)—It was night and the four doughboys weren't too happy about sleeping in the cellar of an abandoned house.

Guards had been posted—but there always the possibility that a Nazi raiding party might slip through.

"Suddenly we heard something moving around with a lot of noise—it sounded like a whole German squad had broken in," said Pfc Hubert J. Crowley of Garden City, Kan.

The men grabbed their arms and ran outside. Reassured by their guards they turned back and peered into a window.

"Inside was a huge pig," said Crowley. "He had wandered in and was bumping around in the dark."

Pvt. Alton Massey of Texas (address not given) was surprised to learn he had annoyed the Nazis even before he came overseas.

United States, Massey copped first place in a jitterbug contest at the servicemen's center in Chicago, in March, 1942, and Life magazine ran a half-page picture of him "cutting the groovy maneuver with a Chicago lass."

Picking up a copy of a popular German magazine recently, Massey found in it a copy of the same picture with the caption sneering at this style of "war dances" enjoyed by American soldiers.

It was a two-man race for the shallow slit trench covered with earth—and there was room for only one man.

Both soldiers heard the distant bark of the German artillery piece firing and the sound of shells whining ever nearer. T. S. Earl Lovelace of Cuyahoga Falls, O., reached the shelter first and dove into its head-long. Right after him came S. Sgt. Joe L. Verock of Lakeside, O., who pushed and butted Lovelace forward as he tried to get in too.

After the barrage lifted, part of Verock still was outside the trench—but Lovelace had been wedged in so far it took three soldiers to get him out.

• SO THEY SAY

In one advance we had to forego our usual heavy barrage by the big guns because we did not have the shells. When the infantry moved in, 40 of them were killed by a mortar gun that ordinarily would have been destroyed by the barrage.

—Staff Sgt. Clarence W. Alexis of Falconer, N. Y., on Army tour to appeal for greater production.

Through learning to produce for war, China will learn to produce for peace and will begin to travel the road that leads to industrial greatness.

—Donald M. Nelson at Chungking.

Since Pearl Harbor the deaths of American soldiers and sailors have been only 50 per cent higher than the deaths from traffic accidents on the home front during the same period.

—Ernest W. Burgess, U. of Chicago sociologist.

Non-education is better by far than mis-education, for it probably takes generations to change those educated the wrong way.

—Dr. Y. C. James Yen, director Chinese Mass Education Movement.

Actually we have shot down in the air over 4000 planes in the last year and a half, and I have an idea that their (the Japs') production is not as great as they would have us believe.

—Vice Adml. Marc A. Mitscher.

If peace is to have really solid foundations, there must be so great a determination never to fall under the sway of Nazi ideas that it will in fact amount to a political, social, and moral revolution on the whole European continent.

—Eduard Benes, president Czechoslovakia.

ROMANTIC MASQUERADE

by MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER FOUR

It was a bunch of scarlet poppies, nodding from a bird's nest of a hat that first attracted Daphne's eye. Recognizing its wearer, she beamed. "Let me say it first for once, Mrs. Gilson. You haven't changed a bit!"

Mrs. Gilson held Daphne's hand tightly for a moment. "You took the words out of my mouth. All your old friends have been telling you that, haven't they? And it's true."

"Thanks, dear. And I've had a busy week, seeing old friends. Every one seems to know I'm back."

"Of course they do. That was such a nice piece in Tommy Dennison's paper. I suppose you're coming to Minnie Fisk's tea this afternoon?"

Daphne said she hoped to drop in later, after she'd completed some household chores.

"I hear you're making a lot of changes. Of course, with a quarter of a million dollars!" — Mrs. Gilson didn't seem to notice Daphne's gasp — "you won't have too much trouble getting help, but we have a few young men who aren't working in the war factories."

"I've got to hire someone to get the grounds in shape for a garden."

"If I hear of anyone, I'll let you know," Mrs. Gilson moved a little closer and dropped her voice. "Daphne, do you think this hat is too giddy for me?"

"I think it's just right."

"Well! Floss Huntley was saying the other day that we'll all be getting clothes-conscious with you in our midst, just back from Paris, so to speak."

Daphne smiled wryly. "The one dress I got in Paris was a present from a girl whose cousin, a dressmaker in Peoria, had sent it to her. It was wool, henna colored wool. It had been hot in Paris that summer, but she hadn't had anything else to wear when she got out of the hospital. She would never wear a russet shade again as long as she lived. The memory made her feel a bit ill even now. She had to look at herself in a nearby store window mirror, to be reassured by her green shetland suit, her paler cashmere sweater."

Then Mrs. Gilson said, "Good-bye, my dear. Do try to get to Minnie's for a cup of tea."

She went off with a final nod of her poppies.

"Hiya, Daphne! Nice day, ain't it?" Roy Gates, loading a grocery truck, called to her.

"Perfect!"

Everything was perfect. Away for twelve years in places where her passing had left no imprint, she'd come home to find she was not forgotten, hailed by grocery boy and judge's wife alike.

Nothing much was changed. Familiar faces, a little heavier, or a little thinner, looked not much older to her. And the town was almost the same. There were a few new stores, but all the old ones were still there.

It was only at the North End, far from the factory sites, that she found some notable changes. Out there the Dennisons had built a house in the colony of garden plots, rolling lawns, and new homes, their English stucco and French provincial brick mingled with Cape Cod saltboxes, lending a fashionable Westchester effect.

"Our houses are modern," Kate had said, "but we'll always be small-town people. We're not casual about cocktails. We don't gamble with large sums of money, or with our happiness. Most of us have one maid, and the Turners, who own the Malleable Iron Works, are the only people who have a butler."

"By the way, the Turner girl has a crush on you, Daphne. She'll probably make a pest of herself, but she's a nice child."

Miss Buff Turner had glided her slim presence firmly to Daphne. Despite the ten years' difference in their ages, they had become close friends in this one week.

It was Buff who'd said, "You'll have to get a car, living up on Woodbine Hill. I know where you can get a station wagon cheap."

So Daphne had bought the station wagon which was doing sixty up the long hill on the crest of which stood her worldly domain. She drove past the few swarsely placed houses of her neighborhood, and pulled up on the side of the road opposite her house, the better to get a long view of it.

After a week she was beginning to see it with a coat of gleaming white where now it was a dusty mustard; to see it with a copper green roof, the ugly porch banished and with a colonial doorway. She'd have a scarlet door with an enormous brass knocker. Or would she have a black door, and a carriage lamp with blue glass? It was things like this that she engaged her mind for the hour.

Meanwhile Daphne had other things to do. She had to get to Minnie Fisk's for tea. She had to make the pieces of furniture the upholsterer would call for in the morning. She was in a fever of impatience to have the place in order. The upstairs rooms would be ready in a fortnight, but it would take much longer to take down walls, and have floors, painting, and paper hanging done.

She'd do lots of it herself. She was very tired of hearing about the labor shortage. It was a good thing she was having only simple changes made.

That thought thrust Alan Pembroke into her mind. Daphne had a second letter from him that morning, after she'd answered the first, saying as politely as possible that she had decided not to employ an architect for the present.

Pembroke was "coming up your way," he wrote in answer to that, and would be dropping in "shortly."

Dismissing the whole thing with a fervent hope that no one would drop in until she'd got organized, Daphne went about tagging the furniture while thinking of her future garden.

The grounds presented a baffling problem. It was years since any one had tried to control the natural development. Brush was shoulder high, and all sorts of poisonous-looking bushes grew in strange places. The day before, Daphne got down on her knees and tried to pry a few of the less formidable looking weeds from between the bricks. Their roots must have been set in China for all the success she met. After half an hour of spending all her strength and getting nowhere, her hands were scratched and her stockings torn.

And then Daphne saw that she'd been under observation by a man and his dog. The former was seated on a stone wall not thirty feet away, calmly pulling on a pipe, and obviously amused by her discomfiture.

"Hello," she ventured uncertainly, noting his battered felt hat, leather jacket and rough corduroy trousers.

What he answered could have been "Alo." He continued to smoke, returning her stare in kind. His face was brown, almost swarthy, and he had a small, neatly trimmed mustache.

"Siete Italiano?" she asked experimentally.

"I said: Are you Italian?" He shook his head.

Wine Cellars In France Reveal Nazi Food Stores

(By United Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Those old French wine cellars hold more than wine. Yank quartermaster soldiers discovered upon entering the town of Chiq Mars la Pile, in northern France.

American soldiers discovered an unbelievable amount of German subsistence supplies stored in the series of wine cellar tunnels under the town. Officials of the Kansas City quartermaster depot reported.

A rough inventory begun shortly after occupation revealed that nearly a million pounds of canned meats, including beef, pork, sausages, hams, sardines, tuna and several stew combinations, were neatly stacked in branch tunnels. Nearly 7,000 cases of canned milk, more than 75,000 pounds of dehydrated potatoes shaved like chips; 4,000 large cans of "kraut"; thousands of cases of assorted canned fruits and vegetables; and even a large quantity of ginger ale also were found.

So great was the "haul" that two days were required to make even a partial inventory, based on the counting of units of 50 of all items.

Incidentally, the ancient wine cellars also held about 20,000 cases of assorted bottled wines, and several thousand more gallons of wines in vats.

A map with its center at the North Pole accurately shows three-fourths of the earth's land area, on which 90 per cent of the earth's people live.

Churchill Ponders Post-War Writings

LONDON—Offers up to a million dollars have been made to Premier Churchill for the world rights of his post-war writing, it was learned today.

Highest bids have come from United States publishers. All bids have been filed for future reference since Churchill is not yet in a position to be able to state whether or not he will be able to write immediately after the war.

According to political circles, the premier has made up his mind to remain in political life for some time after the end of hostilities. It is regarded as virtually certain that he will head the Conservative party at the general election, which is considered to be bound to come in 1945. His war record will be a great vote-getter even though it will not be made the main plank in the Conservative party's platform—and there are few who doubt the Conservatives will obtain a thumping majority.

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — The talk over new State department appointments was crowded for interest in Washington today by a new pension-for-congressman plan and by a huge postwar public works program.
Backed by many house members the pension-for-congressmen proposal was described by Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the house labor committee as simply an extension of the current federal employees retirement system.

Large-scale shifting of surplus men from Air Service Forces to Ground Forces is disclosed by Lt. Gen. Ben Lear. A radical change in the mission of the Army Ground Forces is gleaming 65,000 men from air and service units. More may be shifted later.

Progress toward standardizing aircraft may bring cheaper and better peacetime international flying. This is the belief of six American aeronautical engineers just returned from a five weeks tour of aircraft factories and other installations in England.

The Bureau of Ships is spending a million dollars an hour to maintain the Navy's fighting strength. And by renegotiating war contracts, the Navy has saved $7,500,000,000, reports the house naval committee. Contracts totalling 56 billions were renegotiated.

New Portable Freezers
Make Things Nice for GI

WASHINGTON — New Portable refrigerators and ice-cream freezers are making life in the steamy Pacific jungle islands more bearable for American soldiers, the War Department revealed.

The new lightweight, portable ice cream making unit, being shipped to all theaters in the Pacific, can produce 40 gallons of ice cream in eight hours. An ice cream mix to which only water need be added is provided.

The new portable refrigerator is gasoline operated, capable of maintaining inside temperature at 10 degrees when the outside is 120 degrees. One refrigerator protects enough fresh meat for 400 men. It uses a new type of refrigerant. The cabinet is so sturdy it can stand a four-foot drop without injury.

There is also a new portable cook stove capable of providing hot meals or 30 men in isolated detachments. It weighs 80 pounds and can be dismounted and packed in two 40-pound units.

PLASMA TECHNIQUE SAVES MANY LIVES

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — The speed with which blood plasma is administered to a critically wounded serviceman often is the difference between life and death.
Lt. Allan A. Fisher, U. S. Navy surgeon assigned to the Schenectady Red Cross blood donor center, says a new technique has been developed in combat areas whereby the plasma is administered in four places in a man's body simultaneously, in order to get it into him quickly enough to save his life.

"One bottle of plasma is fed into each arm and one bottle is fed to the patient in each leg," Fisher said. "I know of many traumatic shock cases if plasma is administered within 45 minutes a life is saved. An hour would be too late," he added.

As many as 10 pints have been required to save the life of one man, the Mediterranean theater

Quakers Seek To Return To Victory Trail Against Minerva

Lions Seeking First Win In Four Games On Salem's Floor In Friday Contest

SALEM	POSITION	MINERVA
Schaeffer	Forward	Tomlinson
Lanney	Forward	Guinea
Brian	Center	Davis
Kelly	Guard	Yoder
Appedisian	Guard	Davidson

Hoping to strike and strike potently for their second win in three games, Coach Bob Miller's Salem Quakers will entertain an inexperienced Minerva Lion cage aggregation here tomorrow evening.

Taking over where Coach Lester Emerson left off last year, Coach Clarence Eckert hasn't found too much material to work with.

From the Lion crew which fell 36-24 to Salem in 1943, Eckert has just two letter-winners, and one of them wasn't a starter last season. Salem took the Lions by that score during the regular season and downed them 43-19 later in tournament play.

Jack Yoder and Jack Davidson, both guards, are the two letter winners around whom Coach Eckert has moulded his starting group.

The balance of the Minerva team is composed of recruits from the reserve team that lost to Salem's seconds, 19-17, in a thriller last year.

At forwards Coach Eckert will start Paul Tomlinson and George Guinea and the center position will be filled by Joe Davis, a last slightly over the six foot mark.

So far this season the Lions have suffered three losses, two of them by one point margins. Opening against a powerful Louisville squad on a strange floor, the Lions lost out in the final seconds, 28-27. The next attempt was a rout, Canton Timken's veteran crew knocking them off 69-39 with little trouble.

The last defeat came at the hands of an inspired Salineville team on their home floor, 21-20.

Not overly optimistic about his team's chances here tomorrow, Eckert, however, is looking for a rebound from the Salineville loss. He said the defeat came as a severe shock to his boys and he expects an improved brand of ball Friday.

Salem's Coach Miller, given another day's practice this week when the Lisbon game was called off because of weather conditions, is whipping his team into what he hopes will be better form than they displayed on Columbiana's cramped court.

Salem's lineup this week will probably be the same that started against Columbiana. At forwards will be Mutt Schaeffer and Francis Lanney, with Ray Kelly and Jim Appedisian roaming the back courts, Jim Appedisian so far this year, has the team's top scoring honors, posting nine in the first game and 17 at Columbiana for a 26 point total.

Walt Brian will be in at his usual pivot position. Brian, the team's top scorer last year, will work against Davis Friday—a man he tallied 16 points against in tournament play.

The reserve game will start at 7:30 and the varsity game about 8:45 p. m.

Best of National Pro Loop To Exhibit Wares On Youngstown Floor

Top scorers in the National Professional Basketball league will battle in the Fort Wayne Zollners-Cleveland Allmen exhibition game at the South Field House in Youngstown tonight. Heading the pro point makers is Mel Riebe, sensational Clevelandaner. Second is Bobby McDermott of Fort Wayne, claimed by many to be the outstanding player in the circuit.

An added bit of rivalry between the clubs should stir interest. The Zollners beat Cleveland twice this year—by one point in the last meeting at Cleveland on Sunday. However, Allmen boosters claim the Zollners have been illegally guarding Riebe. Jerry Bush and Charley Synnot of Fort Wayne have been hawking the "stop Riebe" assignment.

Plenty of Height

Cleveland has many giants, including John Mills, six-foot 8 inches tall; and Don Warnke, 6 feet 10 inches, former Valparaiso College ace. Riebe, a product of Cleveland Euclid Shore, is six feet tall and weighs 190.

Teaming with McDermott as Fort Wayne's ace is Paul Birch, veteran pro cager.

Two Westminster college teams will stage a basketball clinic at 7:30. The "Blues" and "Whites" will show various rule infractions, basketball strategy, and other interesting angles of the game. The main contest starts at 8:30.

Church League Will Open Season Saturday At Memorial Building

The Memorial building's second league of basketball teams gets started on Saturday afternoon when the Church league—for players 16 years old or younger—initiated the 1944-45 season.

The Mickey McGuire league, teams from the six grade schools in Salem, began operations last week and has another three game card on tap this week.

Entered this season in the Church loop are teams from St. Paul's, Methodist, Baptist, Trinity and Zion churches with an unattached outfit, playing under the name of the Orphans.

The first day of play will pit the Methodists against St. Paul's, the Baptists versus the Trinity men and Zions against the Orphans.

The contests are scheduled for 1, 1:30, and 2 p. m. Saturday, Joe Kelley, building manager, announced today. A complete schedule will be announced later.

The building's two other leagues—the "A" loop and the "B" loop—are slower getting started this season because of the manpower shortage, Kelley said. There is a possibility that there will be no "A" league this season but Kelley expects the "B" loop, composed of six teams, to begin next week.

The holdup, Kelley says, is due to a small entry list so far. He hopes to line up two or three more teams this week.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—At the risk of having our outstretched neck treated like a Christmas turkey, this dept. feels compelled to point out that the football season's two big War Bond shows have failed to interest the people they were intended to reach.

The Army-Navy game in Baltimore sold $38,637,000 worth of bonds and next Saturday's bond bowl game here between Randolph field and the Second Air force has reached its quota of $79,750,000.

The figures are impressive, but the Army-Navy sale included several million-dollar boxes and the Bond Bowl quota was underwritten by "corporate interests" and payroll savings groups. They'd be buying bonds anyway and aren't the new small buyers whose attention was sought.

FOUNDED REMARKS

"When an observer at the recent baseball meetings noticed Branch Rickey with his arm affectionately draped over Bob Quinn's shoulders, he remarked: 'There goes Bob's shirt.' ... And when Shortstop Bud Kuersten was seen occupying the place at the head of the table while dining with a group of Giant officials, a National league manager commented: 'I'll bet $20 he's a holdout.'"

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

National Football league club owners are likely to raise quite a fuss Monday about the major league rule barring them from ball parks until the baseball season ends, but they won't be able to do much about it.

... Mrs. Rachel La Tell of Vestal, N. Y., who ordinarily bowls her own weight (123½ average for a 123-pounder), rolled a 300 game last week. Asked how she felt about it, she replied: "I don't know. I didn't feel anything." ... When he staged his first international "non professional" baseball series in the United States, Ray Dumont plans to have one umpire from each country (probably 16). He will use four each inning and alternate them so there'll be no claims of American favoritism.

SERVICE DEPT.
Col. Charles D. Reidpath, winner of the Olympic 400-meter run in 1912, didn't disclose any military information when he wrote his old coach, Tom Keane of Syracuse, what part of Europe he had been visiting. Reidpath wrote: "I have been revisiting the place where we saw Woodie do such a swell job. ... Woodie—Alan Woodring—won the Olympic 200 meters in 1920 at Antwerp."

OLD MEN MAKE UP CHAMP PRO TEAMS

Giants and Packers To Square Off In Title Game On Sunday

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—When the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants square off for the National Football title in New York Sunday the spoils will fall to a crew of gridders "ancients."

Both the Western and Eastern division finalists are loaded with gray-beards as far as the rock-em sock-em game of professional football is concerned.

The Packers may field a line averaging more than 30 years old and the Giant forward wall probably will be only two years younger. The two backfields, at one time or another, will average 28 or older.

Dean of the oldies, of course, is New York's Ken Strong, plenty active at 38, who led the league in field-goal kicking. He has such venerable Giant buddies as the amazing Mel Hein, who at 35 still plays a wicked pivot game; 34-year-old Arnie Herber, the arm of New York's air attack; and Halfback Ward Cuff and Tackle Vic Carroll, a couple of half-pounders for all of 31 years.

Don Hutson Is 31

On the Green Bay roster, football life apparently began again at 30 for peerless Don Hutson, who sneaked out of retirement to spear his fifth straight scoring title and his fourth consecutive pass-receiving championship; Tackle Adolph Schwamm, half back Joe Laws; and Guards Charles (Buckets) Goldenberg and Pete Tinsley.

Schwamm is the Packer patriarch at 36, while Laws is 33 and Hutson, Goldenberg and Tinsley 31.

Guard Bill Kuzistio, 26, probably will be Green Bay's youngest starting lineman, Harry Jacunski at the other flank is 28, while Center Charley Brock is 28 and Tackle Buford Ray is 30. In the Packer backfield are Larry Craig, 28, Lou Brock, 27, and Irv Comp, 25.

Ends O'Neal Adams and Frank Liebel are the "kids" of the Giant line at 25. Tackle Frank Cope is 29, and Guards Lem Younce and Charley Avedian, are 27. Youthful Bill Paschal and Len Calligan, 23 each, and Howard Livingston, 22, somewhat offset the aging trio of Strong, Cuff and Herber in New York's backfield.

Snapping turtles are unable to eat unless their heads are under water.

Majors Meeting Just A Breeze As Compared To Ones Held In Past Years

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Baseball's trade winds, generally a mighty gale at the annual major league meetings, were only a gentle zephyr at the convention just concluded.

Gazing into another talent-shy wartime season, and facing further draft of the 26-37 age group into military service, the clubs for the most part decided to hang on to their present players and not gamble on swaps.

Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland's Indians disclosed Pitcher Jim Bagby was on the block, and might go to the St. Louis Browns for hurler Bob Muncie or to the Chicago White Sox for Bill Dietrich.

Of 13 resolutions passed yesterday, the banning of grid games at big league parks until the baseballers have finished is expected to provide most of the fuel for the winter's Hot Stove league discussions.

Football can't do much about the edict, since the baseball men own the parks, but the National Grid loop will take the matter up at its Monday session here. George Strickler, public relations chief of the gridders, said:

"If we're ever going to have our own gridirons, actions like this will hasten the day

U.S. Warned Japs Will Attempt To Avenge Defeat Humiliation

For six months, the Japs held Robert Bellaire prisoner in a Tokyo internment camp. They brought great pressure to bear on him, in the hope that he would serve as their radio voice, directing propaganda against the United States. Bellaire headed United Press bureaus in Shanghai and Tokyo, and is well known as a writer and lecturer. Here he presents his views on the possibilities of permanent peace with Japan.

BY ROBERT BELLAIRE
Written for NEA Service

Will the destruction of Japan's war machine, and the liquidation of the so-called militarist clique in Japan, guarantee us lasting peace in the Pacific?

No leader of any of the United Nations has dared to predict that it will, and the reason is quite simple. Our statesmen realize now that the war lords of Japan are not alone to blame for Japan's atrocious record of plunder, slaughter, rape and cruelty.

Our leaders know the responsibility must fall also upon the overwhelming majority of the Japanese people themselves, and that we shall still have tens of millions of these people living in the same world with us after the war.

In recent years Japan has deliberately slaughtered 12,000,000 human beings, and starved fully as many additional millions. She has conquered and plundered 10 countries in which she has enslaved almost 500,000,000 human beings. She has distributed narcotics among these enslaved peoples on a wholesale basis, and she is guilty of an estimated 3,000,000 cases of rape. Tens of thousands of other authenticated examples of savage atrocities are part of the same record.

WONT ADMIT WRONG

Anyone who considers the immensity of that infamous record must see at once that it could not have been accomplished by any small handful of so-called war lords. Obviously, those war lords required considerable assistance, and they found it, willing and waiting, in millions and millions of average Japanese.

If the average Japanese were the god-man he thinks he is, we might hope that defeat would teach him a lesson. But he is a very human individual, and his reaction to defeat will be equally human, and therefore predictable.

The Japanese will regard their defeat as an unbearable humiliation to be avenged by any means at the earliest possible opportunity. They will have no desire for our friendship, except as it may help prepare them for the day of vengeance. To believe otherwise is to believe that Japan might drive 135,000,000 Americans back into our original 13 colonies, and make us like it, and accept it.

Secondly, the Japanese will never admit that they have done any wrong. The Japanese will always consider this a religious crusade aimed at establishing world peace. Yes, the Japanese says we will have no more wars as soon as all the world accepts the single political and religious dictatorship of his god-emperor.

Thirdly, the Japanese will never admit that they were defeated by our superior equipment, morale or ability. Neither will Japan's militarists be discredited as a class. A handful of necessary scapegoats will be blamed for failure to capitalize on great victories which would have assured Japan easy and quick victory.

TERRIBLE TEMPTATION

The destruction of the American fleet at Pearl Harbor, the conquest of an empire potentially the most powerful on earth, and the willingness to wage war against the combined forces of the entire world—these will be but a few of the glorious memories of the average Japanese will have of the war lords. Also to their credit will be the fact that no single nation, not even America, undertook to defeat them single-handed.

Finally, a terrible temptation will ring in the ears of every Japanese for decades to come. It is the unpleasant fact honestly acknowledged by General Marshall: "The Japanese attacks on the Pacific Fleet in Hawaii uncovered the entire west coast of North America."

Obviously, from the Japanese view point, that is the invitation to try again, next time with new war lords possessing sufficient foresight and ability to capitalize on such spectacular victories.
